Detroit Tigers Wins World Series

In one of the most exciting and breath taking games ever played, Detroit Tigers made themselves world champions of the Baseball World on Monday by defeating the Chicago Cubs 4-3 in the sixth game of the World's series, which gave the Tigers their fourth win of the series.

Battling all the way through, with the score tied for three innings and a half, and two men down in the last half of the ninth, Manager Cochrane got a base hit, was sacrificed to second, and the "Goose" Goslin smashed out a $50,000 two base hit that brought "Mickey" home and finished the world's series, bringing each player of the Detroit team a little over $6,000 pocket money for the series and the members of the losing Cubs a little over $4,000 each.

It was an exciting series all the way through, both teams being quite evenly matched and fighting every foot of the way.

ON INCOME TAX

We are indebted to the scissors of the editor of the Peace River Record for the following. Says he dug it up in the Wall Street Journal. We don't know either what he would be doing with a paper like that, but he did find the following letter, claimed to have been received by the Internal Revenue Department:

"Gents—The enclosed form, on which I am asked to make a record of my income for the last fiscal year, is returned to you with my respects and my deepest appreciation of this subtle form of flattery. I am particularly impressed by its resurrection of old forms and figures of speech, such as 'compensation from outside sources,' 'net profits received,' 'income from rents,' 'interest on bank deposits,' etc.

"The question I got a great laugh out of was 'Were you during the taxable year supporting in your household one or more persons related to you?' Boy, that's a honey! There are so many persons closely related to me staying at my house that I am what you would call surrounded. Only the other day three more distant cousins of my wife blew in, making a new high for the movement. And one of them brought a friend.

"For the past four years my house has been full of strangers all claiming to be my cousins or aunts or something. I can't identify half of them, and what burned me up was when my wife's uncle Jerry, who has been living with us for a year, slapped me on the back the other day and asked, 'Haven't I seen you some place before?'

"The blank says it will allow me $400 for each dependent relative, and I would say the government is overpricing them, as I would trade the entire lot for $11 and throw in a pair of bicycle pants and a magic lantern. (Two of my wife's aunts you can have for the asking.)

"Heigh-ho and lackaday! The blank also asks me to 'describe your business as provided in Item 2' and I am glad to answer, 'Lousy, Mr. Secretary, lousy.' And it asks me to enter on line 1 on Schedule A my total receipts. I wish you would stop joking Mr. Secretary. Fun is fun, and you can carry anything to far.

"Then you say something about allowance for 'obsolescence, depreciation and deflation.' That's where I come in. As a Canadian business man I am a study in obsolescence. I am depleted, deflated, depressed, defunct, denounced, deranged and defected. And so is your old man. Yours in a barrel."

Johansen Heard Here Wednesday Night

A fair sized crowd gathered at the Town Hall Wednesday evening to listen to Mr. John A. Johansen, Federal C. C. F. nominee in the coming election, and listened attentively to the speaker's plans for monetary reform and controlled currency, which has been the big issue of the C.C.F. during the campaign.

Interest has been very slack in the Dominion campaign, and to date none of the speakers have had very large crowds out to listen to them, Mr. Johansen also happened to have a night when paths and roads were muddy, and this very likely cut down the size of his crowd.

APPENDICITIS

The appendix is the most useless and, at the same time, one of the most troublesome parts of the body. It is a slender tube usually about three inches in length, attached to the large bowel in the lower right side of the abdomen.

Because of its size and structure, the appendix is prone to fall victim to infection by invading germs, which set up an inflammation called appendicitis. The germs may enter from the bowel, or come in the blood stream from distant parts of the body, such as infected tonsils or teeth.

The symptoms of appendicitis are usually definite. The first symptom is pain. Generally sudden and severe, it may be spreads and a fatal peritonitis appendix ruptures, the infection develops; in others a local abscess forms. For many the acute attack is the beginning of a chronic condition with acute relapses.

There is one thing which everyone should know. When there is abdominal pain—stomach-ache, colic, or whatever name you call it—do nothing but send for a doctor. Such pains are always a sign of danger. NEVER, NEVER give a laxative to a person, young or old who has a pain in the abdomen.

The doctor is never called too early. The reason why so many die because of appendicitis is because the doctor is summoned too late and the patient has been given a laxative.

If you must do something for abdominal pain put on an ice-pack or compresses wrung out of cold water while you are waiting for the doctor, but always remain on the safe side and avoid giving laxatives.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St. Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Anniversary Week commencing Monday at the Capitol will bring a wonderful array of outstanding pictures. See them all.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burton of Cardston were Raymond visitors Sunday attending the funeral of Leland Nalder, and visiting with relatives.

Funeral Services For Leland Nalder Held Sunday

One of the largest funerals ever held in Raymond was held in the Stake House on Sunday, October 6th, over the remains of Leland Nalder, 19 year old son of Mrs. Honnie Nalder, who met such a tragic death at the Sugar Factory, Friday when he was caught in the swiftly running shakers on the beet piler.

The beautiful lavender casket was literally buried with flowers, as were the rostrum back of the casket. The members of the High School Basketball team of which deceased was a member were pall bearers and an escort of honor, wearing the team sweaters and letters in honor of their team mate. A large number of the High School girls acted as flower girls and sat in a body on the stand, out of respect to their departed comrade.

Bishop Walker of the Raymond Second Ward had charge of the services, and by special request C. F. Tollestrup had charge of the singing, the choir being assisted by an orchestra of local and Lethbridge musicians. Hymns by the Choir were "As the Dew From Heaven," "When Dark and Drear the Skies Appear," and "Lead Kindly Light." F. R. Taylor and Co. sang a Male Quartette "Crossing the Bar," and a vocal solo "Beyond the Dawn," by Jos. R. McLean completed the musical program.

Speakers at the service were Pres. J. W. Evns, Paul H. Redd, Principal of Raymond's High School, and Bishop James H. Walker of the Second Ward. All of the speakers paid high tribute to the sobriety, morality and spirituality of the deceased, who was a model young man in every respect. Pres. Evans speaking of his activities in the Ward stated that there was never a call made that Leland did not respond to, that he had lived a good moral life, and was a splendid example to his companions. In the home, since his father's death he had always been obedient and anxious to assist his mother in the load she was carrying. Paul Redd stated the love deceased had for learning, and that he was trying to get education enough to obtain a degree. Just a couple of weeks ago, Leland had been chatting with him trying to arrange a program that he could finish up his High School work and get his credits, and then go on to University.

Bishop Walker spoke of the actuality of a literal resurrection, and cited several examples of science to prove the theory that matter is indestructible. On behalf of the family he thanked all for their assistance and thoughtfulness to the family in their bereavement.

Wilford Heninger of the 2nd Ward Bishopric offered the invocation, and Elder Melvin T. King the benediction. Interment was in the Raymond cemetery with Christensen Bros. of Lethbridge in charge.

Dr. J. S. Stewart Defends Bennett Government

Speaking to a fair sized crowd in the Town Hall last Monday evening John S. Stewart, Conservative candidate and present member for Lethbridge Constituency, defended the record of the Bennett Government during the last five years at Ottawa, and told his listeners that if they wanted the present encouraging conditions to continue they must vote Conservative. They could not vote for any other party and have the present sound policies continued because other parties were against these pieces of legislation.

He spent most of his time dealing with the Water Conservation Plan, the Wheat Board and the protection given the Sugar Beet Industry, and stated that while the legislation in each case that had been passed was for the benefit and move, and were telling the protection of the farmer, yet the Liberals had opposed every measure that if elected they would remove the tariffs and duties that were now making conditions more favorable for Canada's basic industry, agriculture and stock-raising.

J. E. Meeks acted as Chairman of the meeting, and at the conclusion of Dr. Stewart's address, a number of questions were asked and answered. He felt over the region of the appendix in the lower right side of the abdomen, but just as often it is in the pit of the stomach, or it may be a general abdominal pain.

A feeling of nausea, with vomiting, follows the onset of pain. At this time, there is some fever. Constipation is usual, but occasionally there is diarrhoea. The severity of the symptoms will vary.

A breath taking drama of the State Police with Fred McMurray, "CAR 99" at the Capitol Theatre, Tonight and Saturday. See it.

Starting a trail of death in Sun River Manitoba, three young Doukhobors, all 21, paid with their lives in the vicinity of Banff when policemen and forest rangers shot all three of them during a posse hunt for them.

They were apprehended for petty larceny in Manitoba and were being taken to trail by R. C.M.P. Constable M. Shaw and City Policeman Wm. Wainwright of Benito, Man. The bandits killed these two policemen, hid their bodies in bushes by the side of the road, stole their car and started west. They are suspected of another hold-up or two on the way west, and held up a man and his wife just outside Banff Park. Officials became suspicious when the trio refused to register at the Park, and while policemen T. S. Wallace and C. C. Harrison of Banff went to investigate, the men opened fire, and fatally wounded both officers.

Harrison fatally wounded Joseph Poskinnoff, one of the trio, and the other two were killed when cold and exposure forced them to seek the highway from the timber land near Banff, and guns of the posse cut them down. Seven lives were the toll of the escapade, four being policemen, which sets a new high record for police officers killed in a single tangle with three law breakers.

Military funerals will be held for the two Alberta officers. Sergeant Wallace was in Lethbridge for a number of years, and is known to many Raymond people.

COMMUNITY ACTION IN SOIL DRIFT CONTROL

While individual effort is usually very effective in controlling soil drifting, and every farmer should adopt the best known control measures on his own farm, the most successful results, says the Soil Drifting Control in the Prairie Provinces bulletin issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, will undoubtedly follow the adoption of community action. The importance of this community action will be readily understood from the fact that an area of unhindered, drifting soil usually expands very rapidly. Moving particles, and in many cases the latter are caused to join in a general movement under the influence of high winds.

The most carefully planned and executed control measures may be entirely ruined if the soil has to withstand the combined action of wind and drifting soil from adjoining unprotected areas. These facts show the necessity for community action if a maximum degree of success in the control of soil drifting is to be obtained. While the control of drifting on any farm is primarily the concern of the individual farmer, his success may be aided or hampered by the action of his immediate neighbours.

In order to prevent losses to neighbouring property by unprotected summerfallow, the Legislative Assembly of the province of Alberta passed an Act in 1935 known as the "Control of Soil Drifting Act." This Act carries certain penalties for failure to provide proper protection to adjacent property. No claim for damages may be made by any person, however, unless the claimant himself is complying with the Act in regard to soil drifting control measures. The Act comes into force on the 1st day of March, 1936.

ELECTION CAMPAIGN NEARLY OVER

What has proven to be a very quiet election campaign locally, at least, will close this week-end with voting on Monday at the Town Hall. Lacking all of the excitement and kick of the Provincial battle, when meetings were well attended, questions by the dozens asked, and plenty of talk and argument on the street, there is very little said, and very few, comparatively speaking attending the meetings being held in the Dominion campaign.

Of course with the National radio hook-ups where especially the leaders, Hon. R.B. Bennett, W. L. MacKenzie King, H. H. Stevens and J. S. Woodsworth are all speaking, almost nightly one can tune in the radio, listen to who he chooses, and when tired switch off the radio and retire. These men have the message of their party, and local speakers coming to our midst, give us the same thing, in just a different line of thought. This has no doubt accounted for a great deal of the apparent lack of enthusiasm.

We trust however, that because there is no arguments and heated debates, that it will not deter people from turning out to vote and expressing their preference in the matter of a candidate in the Dominion House at Ottawa. The obtaining of the franchise has cost some of the best blood of every civilized country to obtain, and every citizen of the country should consider it a sacred duty to cast his or her ballot for the party or candidate of his choice. Then too, there is not the promise of dividends in connection with the voting but even so, the people should vote. They owe it to the men who are endeavoring to legislate in a way and manner that will assist in getting our country out of its trouble into the sea of prosperity and quiet.

If you are satisfied with the present Government, then you should register your vote to help put it back in power. If you are dissatisfied, now is your opportunity to register your displeasure and prevent the Conservatives from going back again. Don't stay home and let "George do it," and then fume and froth because your party is not elected.

And, in voting, remember to use the X, placed opposite the candidate of your choice. YOU CAN ONLY VOTE FOR ONE MAN IN THIS ELECTION. Any numbers on your ballot will spoil it.

NEWS NOTES

Pres. Allen returned home from attending Conference on Tuesday of this week.

Cement work is just about completed now on the front of the Texaco Service Station. Despite the cold on Wednesday the work went on uninterrupted.

A form is now being drafted in Edmonton for those eligible for Social Credit dividends. Every one will have to register in order to participate.

Somebody will be sadly disappointed after Monday. There are 894 candidates in the Federal field for 245 seats. We have an idea the Government will reap a good revenue in forfeited deposits.

Eight premiers joined with Hon. MacKenzie King in a nationwide radio hook-up Tuesday night. It was concluded by Mr. King addressing a huge gathering in the Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto.

SOMETHING TO FEEL GOOD ABOUT

The Federal Reserve Board representing twelve Federal Reserve Banks had a meeting the other day. And according to the New York Times it was said the reports were "the most optimistic summary of business conditions since the depression began."

August saw more factory people working according to Secretary of Labor Perkins and pay rolls showed a slight increase.

There weren't as many business failures for the week ending September 19 as last year.

This optimistic report is given a slight pessimistic twinge by a more recent press comment to the effect that the government will probably have to continue to employ people on public projects for several years to come due to increased efficiency in manufacturing.

We are reminded of a worker who stood up in a meeting in 1928 and said he was one of several thousand laid off by a big plant on account of improved machinery being installed. He said that one man and a master machine could operate 72 machines which formerly needed a man each.

This new place machinery is taking and positions now filled by women which were formerly held by men.

But sewing machines once supplanted seamstresses and railroads threw many coaches in the discard. Eventually those thrown out of work found new employment. Although the present situation is more drastic it will no doubt in time equalize itself.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Amos Leavitt were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nalder and family. Mrs. Leavitt and Mrs. Nalder are sisters.

If we had a little piece of the money spent for the Dominion election campaign we wouldn't worry about Social Credit dividends or anything else for a little while at least.

EXPERIMENTAL STATION, LETHBRIDGE

WEEKLY LETTER

PREPARING SEED

FAIR EXHIBITS

Seed Fairs will be attracting attention from farmers during the months ahead and some hints on preparing samples for exhibiting should be timely. Conditions in southern Alberta, the last season, were quite favourable for the production of high quality and large numbers of exhibits of outstanding merit should be available for showing at seed fairs this coming winter.

A good bulk sample is the first essential in making up a winning exhibit, but the proper preparation is scarcely less important where competition is keen and prizes have to be awarded largely on general quality, appearance and condition of the sample. In fact the claim is sometimes made that prizes are offered for skill in exhibiting rather than for the actual merit of the exhibit itself. This criticism can scarcely be considered valid however because the successful exhibitor must first of all be a successful grower and he uses his showmanship simply as a means of displaying his products to best advantage. Following are a few pointers on preparing grain, corn and potato exhibits offered by W. D. Hay, Cerealist at this Station.

In preparing seed for exhibition one should aim to produce a sample that is uniform in size of good colour, high in weight per bushel; free from immature kernels, cracked or damaged kernels, and of course free from weed seeds or impurities of any kind. It is advisable to first do as much grading as possible with the fanning mill and finally to remove the remaining undesirable kernels by hand.

In wheat the abnormally large kernels are first removed and of the remainder those which will not pass through a No. 9 round screen are of the size required for show purposes. After grading is done to obtain them a slotted screen 7-64 should be used to eliminate cracked kernels.

In the case of oats grading can best be done by passing them over a 13-64 screen to remove the short oats and then over a round screen to grade them for plumpness. Green kernels that cannot be removed by fanning should be picked out by hand. By clipping the tips the weight per measured bushel be greatly increased. This can be done by putting the oats in a cotton sack tied very loosely so that they may be shaken about freely in the sack. By rubbing them vigorously in the sack the tips of the kernels can be easily broken off and these can be removed by passing them over the fanning mill. Care should be taken not to overdo this clipping and thereby injure the kernels.

Potatoes should be selected as nearly ten ounces in size as possible and uniformity of size and shape is essential. They should be well cleaned, but too often the mistake of over washing them is made. It is important that all the tubers be well matured, free from injury in harvesting and disease of any kind.

In preparing an exhibit of corn one must be familiar with what constitutes a typical ear of the variety being prepared. All ears should then be chosen so as to conform as closely as possible to that standard. The ears chosen should be well matured, properly dried and of desirable size. It is often advisable to sacrifice size of ear slightly in order to obtain greater maturity.

A corn and seed fair open to all exhibitors south of township 19 will be held in Lethbridge on November 8th and 9th, and the Provincial Seed Fair will be held in Edmonton early in the new year. The Toronto Royal Show is November 20th to 28th, and the Chicago International the week following the Toronto Show. Many readers of this letter will be especially interested possibly in the Lethbridge Fair and for further information should write to the Secretary, A. E. Russell, at Lethbridge. Those interested in the Edmonton, Toronto, and Chicago shows should write to the Field Crops Commissioner in Edmonton.

Canadian Pacific

Tale of Heroic Achievement

Marks C. P. R.'s 50th Anniversary

Craigellachie Day, November 7, next marks the fiftieth anniversary of the driving of the last spike, final completion of the Canadian Pacific line from Montreal to Vancouver and the final consummation of Canadian Confederation. Arrangements are now being made for its fitting celebration so that Canadian Pacific people and the country in general may be reminded of the part this Company has played in national development.

It is particularly fitting that the Company's jubilee year should be marked by the appearance of an important book bearing on its history and the new volume by J. Murray Gibbon, whose picture is shown above, will be the more welcome on that account. It is entitled "Steel of Empire" and apart from its special interest to Canadian Pacific people as a most complete and interesting history of their own Company, it is so comprehensive and fascinating a tale of the discovery and development of Canada that it will make a strong appeal to all who are interested in this country. It is published by the Bobbs Merrill Company in the United States and by McClelland & Stewart in Canada and appears as an extremely handsome volume. Sixteen full colour illustrations and over two hundred in black and white help carry the interest throughout, aided by a series of explanatory maps. It sells at $3.50 a copy. Despite its wide range of information and the vast amount of reading and research that clearly has gone into its making, it is full of human interest and is an absorbing record of the human desires and ambitions that have become the foundation stones of Canadian nationality.

History of the Canadian Pacific as it may be, it is a fascinating and important book long before the author gets around to that great institution. The early history of transportation by trail and canoe is told with a wealth of daily incident and in the light readable style that one would expect from this accomplished author.

Mr. Gibbon very largely ignores the common-place history book stories of early settlement and lays before us new incidents and hitherto neglected movements that led to the exploration and final conquering of the Canadian wilderness. Thus, he recalls that in the time of Queen Anne the new demand for tea and the tremendous vogue for Chinese porcelain and for Chinese house decorations turned merchant eyes towards the Orient and sharpened the desire to find the North West passage. In a large sense the book is the story of the search for and the ultimate building of a new road to the Pacific. The fur trade, gold discoveries and ultimately the opening up of the country as a land for settlement each played their big part in the development of Canada, but it was the search for the road to the "East" that drew adventurous pioneer souls forward until Canada had become a Dominion and the Canadian Pacific Railway had been built.

you of one facial feature which most everyone can cultivate and by so doing, add greatly to her personal allure. That is the eyebrow.

In these days of enlightenment, it matters not of the eye brows are too thin, uneven, too heavy, or ungraceful in shape
you can make them into things of beauty which will add attraction to your face.

of the motion picture stars and try to find a face shaped like your own. You might then follow the shape of the actress' eyebrows.

gives them shape, line and accent
